

John Mayall, Kids Got The Blues - John Mayall

There's a new generation
Who would ever have guessed
All around the world
And I must confess
When I was just a young lad I wished I could be playing the Blues

Now it's the twenty first century
We've come a long way
Give a kid some Blues heroes
They're learning to play

To make a contribution look at all kids with the Blues

When you hear that lick
You better catch on quick
Ain't that a kick
We've got the kids turning on to the Blues

It's the same in every concert
Check out the front row
Parents with their children
Watching them grow

All around the world
It won't be long before they're playing the Blues

When you hear that lick
You better catch on quick
Now ain't that a kick
We've got the kids turning on to the Blues

It's a heavy stimulation
Don't need a new drug
The kid's on a mission
Catching that bug
All around the world I hear the sound of kids playing the Blues

When you hear that lick
You better catch on quick
Now ain't that a kick
We've got the kids turning on to the Blues

Now isn't that a kick
We've got the kids turning on to the Blues
