John Prine, The Hobo Song

There was a time when lonely men would wander thru this land rolling aimlessly along so many times I've heard of their sad story written in the words of dead men's songs.

Down through the years many men have yearned for freedom some found it only on the open road so many tears of blood have fell around us 'cause you can't always do what you are told.

Please tell me where have all the hobos gone to I see no fire burning down by the rusty railroad track could it be that time has gone and left them tied up in life's eternal traveling sack.

Last Sunday night I wrote a letter to my loved one I signed my name and knew I'd stayed away too long there was a time when my heart was free to wander and I remember as I sing this hobo song.
