

Jon Bon Jovi, The Distance

There's a train out in the distance, destination still unknown far away where no one's waiting, so far from home,so far from home there's a rose outside your window, the first snow is falling down like that lonesome whistle blowing i keep on going,keep on going... close your eyes and see my blue skies breaking through these dark clouds you are the light in my mind i see your red dress and your arms are reaching
through the night
i'll never give up the fight
i'll go the distance there's a thread that runs between us pulling 'cross this great divide it's only there for the believers don't stop believing, don't stop believing close your eyes and see my blue skies
breaking through these dark clouds
you are the light
in my mind i see your red dress and your arms are reaching
through the night
i'll never give up the fight
i'll go the distance
there's a neverending story that begins,with you and i like the rose outside your window don't let die,don` t let die
close your eyes and see my blue skies
breaking through these dark clouds
you are the light
in my mind i see your red dress and your arms are reaching
through the night
close your eyes and see my blue skies
breaking through these dark clouds
you are the light
in my mind i see your red dress and your arms are reaching
through the night
i'll never give up the fight
i'll go the distance