

Jon McLaughlin, A Song You Might Hear At A We

Forever, All, and Always
Words I've used before
On all the wrong faces.

But I'm going to use
The rest of my life,
Proving to you
Those words were lies.

And of the million things
A heart can hold
And of all the things
I've come to know,
I Love.

I need Love
I can see I'll be alright
With you now by my side.

But if tomorrow you're gone
And I still go on
I promise to Spend the rest of me on you.

People say we are where we belong.
We hold each other's hands
As if we're holding on.

And to me a little of your you
Is like
A little bit of sun
That makes the moon.

And if the "If"s we plan around become "When"s
If our center aisle narrows and bends our Love.

I need love.
I can see that I'll be alright
With you now
By my side.

And if tomorrow you're gone,
And I still go on
I promise to Spend the rest of me
On you.

And
If there ever was a shred of doubt
This hopelessly romantic now
And
I hope that time can slow us down
And minutes pass like hours now
And all the clocks counting down
To Love.

I need Love.
I can see that I'll be alright
With you now by my side.

And if tomorrow you're gone
And I still go on I'll promise to Spend the rest of me on you.
