Jools Holland, Valentine Moon

The first time you kissed me at the end of our street
The gas lamps shone above us, young lovers we'd meet
But the old town has gone now and it's winter too soon
Still we waltz beneath our valentine moon

The streets and the market and the old dog and bell We've gone through the changes, we've lived our lives well But the old town has gone now and it's winter too soon Still we waltz beneath our valentine moon

Valentine moon, valentine moon We danced together as old lovers do Valentine moon, valentine moon We'll always remember our valentine moon

Cette fois que tu m'embrasse, au bout de notre rue Les lampes de gaz nous allumiere, toi et moi jeunes amants But the old town is gone now and it's winter too soon Still we waltz beneath our valentine moon
