

Josh Rouse, Quiet Town

I know somewhere there is a party going down.

Interesting people; conversation to be found.

I've lived in cities where there is no solitude, made some friends there that I hope I'll never lose.

But, for now, I want to stay in this quiet town.

The neighbors on my block, they've got stories to tell.

"This is the grocery who once was a hotel."

"And Mr. Driscoll, he just stands there with his smile, inviting everyone he sees to come inside.

This is the life I want to live in a quiet town.

OoO, sometimes I miss the shows I loved a long time ago.

OoO, sometimes I miss the shows I loved a long time ago.

Come Sunday morning there's a market on the square.

Children are playing, bells are ringing in the air.

Old men are drinking, it's a lazy afternoon; content with thinking that there is nothing to do.

So for now, I'm gonna stay in this quiet town.

In this quiet town.

In this quiet town.
