

Josh Rouse, Streetlights

Rock and roll
You are envy, I am
So uncool
Still I want to do the best I can
Let's meet on the corner and act like we're old friends

We can talk about the streetlights
The people
Surrounding you
In a haze

Won't you tell me how it feels
To be a nervous man
At the wheels
You don't have a master plan
But you will start today
You will start today

I called you up
Cause I felt so guilty
Ended up
It was not such a pretty scene
Let's dump the ashtray, wipe the table clean

We can talk about the streetlights
The people
Surrounding you
In a haze

Won't you tell me how it feels
To be a famous man
At the wheel
You don't have a master plan
But you will start today
You will start today
You will start

When all of your fear is gone
And you're thinking that you're strong
Enough
To make the jump up to the big big sky, sky

We can talk about the streetlights
The people
Surrounding you
It's a strong pull
We can talk about the streetlights
The people
Going down

And you will start today
You will start today
You will start today
You will start
Today
