

Judith, Fools Rule The World

(Bush): "We need to break the cycle of violence"

(Roosevelt): "The only thing we have to fear, is fear itself"

(Bush): "it's essential"

Mighty men, do you know the names
Of the innocent people used up in your games
You give one-way tickets to eternal lives
To our parents, children, husbands and wives

A world in sorrow, is what you leave behind
Yet nobody stops you, are we all so blind
See those angels fly, while our brothers die

Chorus:

Tell me, tell me, why do fools rule the world
to gain power with our lives
Fools, we let fools fool with other peoples' lives

Enjoy your freedom, when you've lost your child
When hurt captures your heart, you're a prisoner for live
Killing the beast, doesn't ease the pain
Hate has never brought love

Chorus:

Tell me, tell me, why do fools rule the world
to gain power with our lives
fools, we let fools fool with other peoples' lives
