

Judybats, You're Too Much

you're like the others
you drink too much
I had my druthers
but it's your touch
that keeps me waiting it's the madness in your eyes and the danger in your smile you're a liar

sometimes you cheat
when you're on a bender your mouth tastes sweet you're a penny in the tip jar of life but you're shiny and you're mine and it's all too much

but it's all I know
you're too much
and there I go
asking the same old questions
trying to sort it out
why did I choose you?

you drive me crazy
you keep my sane
you soothe my body
you wreck my brain
stormy weather stormy you off and do I both crashing through the night

why did I choose you?

you're burning up dear
where have you been out all night running with some old boyfriend well you know how that hurts me come and lay down by my side there there touch me
i'm on fire

i'll never sort it out why do I stay with you?
