Julia Holter, Horns Surrounding Me

Few times do I feel the breeze Of a cold night So I recall the words of lovers sadly in the sun Unending sun

We will run forever with the hot timpani bang, bang! As the sounds recedes, bored lover falls asleep and disappears

Horns Surrounding Me sing so forcefully and high Horns Surrounding Me sing so forcefully and high

Moon, they forget how soft heart is, unfolding over time Heart, don't forget how young we are, we wander softly

Horns Surrounding Me sing so forcefully and high Horns Surrounding Me sing so forcefully and high

Moon, they forget how soft heart is, unfolding over time Heart, don't forget how young we are, we wander softly

Seen through a window, my love blurred, mute, and slow I offer roses to nothing The answer absent