

Juliets Wishing Well, Just Once

there's a man
lives right outside my door lives on the hardwood floor where he was born
he was brought here
against his will but he lives there still to this day
and i never knew he was out there and now i can't look away
he stands out in the rain tries to fake a smile
says i'd like to touch
the sky
just once
i know a girl
she likes to dance
and her feet by chance
do the same
she talks to me
in a parking lot
seems a good spot
to make a friend
she walks away
and my eyes burn
as i watch her turn
for one day
she stands out in the rain she tries to fake a smile says i'd like to touch the sky then they met one day
on a mountain peak
playing hide and seek in the dark he opened up his eyes which were always shut
and she helped him up
as far as he could go but his roots they were dry so he tried and tried and tried and tried and tried
he stands out in the rain
and he tries to fake a smile cause he couldn't touch the sky