

July For Kings, Lighthouse

It got a lot darker here than I thought it would when I disappeared it's funny how a couple of days can make you so afraid you float away you're reaching your hand up now but I can't stand myself or how I took it all for granted it didn't turn out the way I planned it

But I, I won't be afraid I'm sure I'll find a place where the dust and haze will clear and the light on the shore will reappear

Watching the light reappear blink on, blink out (off?), yeah we're still standing here blink on, blink out (off?)
watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?), yeah this flickering is maddening but the light, the light will reappear

Oh, but the light will reappear

It's gonna get more quiet here than I want it to but I hear you, (my dear??) you're whispering
I'm listening I'm happy about the fact that we're a little stronger than the day before just a little longer till we reach the shore I still get down when you're not around I'm not afraid of the (cold?) anymore

But I won't be afraid I'm sure I'll find that place where the dust and the haze might clear oh, and the light, the light will reappear

The light will reappear

Watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?), yeah
watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?)
watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?)
this flickering is maddening
but the light, the light will reappear

But I won't be afraid
I'm sure we'll find that place oh where the dust and haze will clear, clear and the light, where the light will reappear

Watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?), yeah
we're still standing here

blink on, blink out (off?), yeah
watching the light reappear
blink on, blink out (off?)
this flickering is maddening yeah, this flickering is maddening oh, oh, oh
this flickering is maddening