Kamelot, Across The Highlands

I've been witness to so many wars that I'm blind to affliction no ability left to remorse it's my faith and conviction wide awake in this world full of hate I unfurl but I am damned if life itself is condemnation I am immortal thus my freedom is captivity flying all across the highlands searching for a way to finalize my history rising high above the mountains reaching for the sky closer to my sanctuary all my life I've been trying to die reach complete segregation I am ready to open my eyes to a new revelation lost in time there's no place for my soul in his embrace for I am damned if life itself is condemnation I am immortal thus my freedom is captivity bound to live eternally