

Karin Park, Superworld

What's the matter boy your hands are cold as war and the face you showed me I've never seen before Still the sun is shining in your livingroom it's a new day coming the blinds are shut for you

(bridge)

There's no promiss
a lovely morning
show up at your window

(course)

the rockets going down
the sun is up today
challenging the rain
in this superworld unknown
you just let her to rise to shine before your eyes
in this superworld unknown

There's a concert-hall hidden in my mouth if I knew I would sing what this is all about boy you feel so close to everything you lose but who stays and who goes is not for us to choose

(bridge)

There's no promiss
a lovely morning
show up at your window

(course)

the rockets going down
the sun is up today
challenging the rain
in this superworld unknown
you just let her to rise
to shine before your eyes
in this superworld unknown

you are not alone come into this superworld

(course)

the rockets going down
the sun is up today
challenging the rain
in this superworld unknown
you just let her to rise
to shine before your eyes
in this superworld unknown

(course)

the rockets going down
the sun is up today
challenging the rain
in this superworld unknown
you just let her to rise
to shine before your eyes
in this superworld unknown

superworld unknown
the rockets going down
superworld unknown