

Kaskade, Distance

Ive had enough of this long distance
So Im driving down to see you for the day
Stay awhile, see your smile
And when its time to go
You give me a kiss before I get away

In spite of the obvious
The distance of the cry
We want to get on with us
But its only by and by
That we discern the me from we
Giving only selflessly

So Ive had the time to think about things driving
But Im not sure just how clear my thoughts have been Distance makes my thinking more erratic than the norm
Missing you knows nowhere, just when
