

Kate Ryan, Stepping Out

Each day I'm running to get things done
Why am I doing more than I should have done

Am I a slave to this rhythm am I working too hard
What keeps me going from finish to a new start

Not today no way because I'm stepping out

With a smile on my face on a beautiful day
And the sun in my shades I'm doing ok

And if you wonder where you are

Each day I'm running to get things done
Why am I doing more than I should have done

Am I a slave to this rhythm am I working too hard
What keeps me going from finish to a new start

Not today no way because I'm stepping out

With a smile on my face on a beautiful day
And the sun in my shades I'm doing ok

And if you wonder where you are