

Kathy Mattea, True north

He called as soon as he hit New York City The highway was like ice and the wind was turning cold