

Keaton Simons, It's Ok

It's Ok

I think about it all the time
But dont know what to say
When the room is cold and empty
And you look at me that way
Should I sing about the babies playing pool
Or how bout all the times I broke the rules
One time when I was younger
I woke up in a slump
I was staying at a friends house
And my mother picked me up
I told her I was crying in the womb
She said she felt it once a week at noon
And I know that
Its ok
For reality to blow away
So hear me when I say
That life is a crashin wave
One day I was walking through the woods
The trees were high and mighty
But I hardly even noticed them
Cause I heard two lovers fighting
The argument would fluctuate
From scared to nervous quiet
My love is fadin fast, she said
Oh no, he said
Am I it?
They cried and kissed and walked each other home
And I went to do some fighting of my own
And I know that
Its ok
For reality to blow away
So hear me when I say
That life is a crashin wave
