

Kellie Pickler, Life's Too Short

Little voice In the back of my head keeps telling me that I'm not good enough not strong enough little girl somewhere in my mind under the covers cause she too scared of everything to try anything she talks all that trash telling me I should just give up I look in the mirror put on my mascara and tell her to just shutup cause life's too short to hate yourself to try to be someone else So quit wasting your time the days go by way to fast to let anything hold you back so don't cry anymore
cause life's too short to hate yourself every cover of every magazine makes you feel like your not thin enough not pretty enough but a stupid pair old blue jeans that don't quite fit can ruin your day and you beat yourself up you beat yourself up well blue jeans ain't nothing but fabric and buttons they don't mean a thing they cant make you beautiful baby your beautiful so throw em away cause life's too short too hate yourself

to try to be someone else
so quit wasting your time
the days go by way to fast
to let anything hold you back
so don't cry anymore
cause life's too short to hate yourself God doesn't make mistakes just look at this beautiful day life's too short to hate yourself
to try to be someone else
So quit wasting your time
the days go by way to fast
to let anything hold you back
so don't cry anymore
cause life's too short to hate yourself
to hate yourself
to hate yourself