

Kemet, Insignificant

So much patience and devotion, but the world never got

On

We fought it so many times, but the world never got on

We thought the best could happen to the ones who can wait

We thought others could save us but have a look at them;

They are all insignificant

Do it for me if you can, in a slow motion, in a slow motion

Blow this endless melancholy, at a slow motion, at a slow motion

Don't let me alone facing it, the world of others, the world of them

Take my hand, tonight I feel insignificant be in it

We can't rewrite the story, I know it's too late

Our prints in time will disappear, I can't deny it

In our fairytales heroes die, princesses never wake up

But let try to find for a last time, enough strength

To arise together

Every minute shouts its sermons

The distress of living flagellates our hearts

In hate of this insignificant world

We can find strength enough to arise

Our life is behind us, far behind

Have a look at them all, they are all insignificant

Do it for me
