

Kent, We Need To Eat

She grows silent, the light falls
Does it scare you?
Does it chew you to the bone?
I'm sorry, I didn't know
Then I won't put the lights out
Though you hate to undress before my eyes
For your pale skin is in need of summerlight

chorus:

I say: You need to eat
She says: I'll feed on your breath
What if I leave?
She says: Without you I'll be dead
I need some sleep
but I can't let her alone and if I leave
I'd be afraid of coming home

She grows silent, the light falls

Cause it scares you and I can't help but smile
And your best friend has to be the morninglight

chorus

I'm losing you
I'm aware of the words I'm using Losing you...
If you really have to know
I'm sorry but I have to let you go
