

Kevin Tellie, Green Eyes

A green-eyed kiss today is all i need to make this truth a black-sky rain tomorrow is you need to make it proof and if i fall apart on your heart , then pick me up and lay me down but if I fall down to the feathered sound of your green eyes starring at me

Then lay me here apart for my conscience
let me stare into this green eyed girl

A blue smile on Wednesday is what you need to believe me
A broken-heart repair on Thursday is what you need to love me
And if I scatter to your air then let me stay there
But if I scatter to the ground then pick me up and lay me down

So lay me here apart from my beliefs
Let me stare into this green eyed girl
So lay me here

Everything's still waiting
I could lay here forever
Everything's still falling
I'm falling
Oh . everything's still waiting
I could stay here forever
Everything's still falling
Were falling

Any shade of love in your eyes any shade of love, any shade of love
Any shade of love in my eyes any shade of love, any shade of love

Would lay us here in this foggy-eyed mist
To stare into each other's green eyed kiss

I pray for rain she says
Let the rain come wash me away
This green eyed girl
I've fallen for a green eyed girl