

Kill the Alarm, No More Excuses

No more excuses
No more wasted uses for me
Not anymore
No more goodbyes
No more wasted old lines
While I slip right out the backdoor
To find myself inside myself and make myself somebody I like, I like a lot
When anything meant everything
Now nothing means the same thing anymore
I pull myself to pieces I don't think I'll make it back
Fall onto excuses for mistakes made in the past
I try not to believe the little part of me
That say's I threw everything away
Threw everything away
I burned all my bridges
Pulled apart all the stitches that tie
Me together now
I have earned your respect
Become more than you expected I would, and furthermore
I reach inside my head to find the words to say what I want to say
To you all right now
Giving up's not living it up
It's giving it all to somebody else
I pull myself to pieces I don't think I'll make it back
Fall onto excuses for mistakes made in the past
I try not to believe the little part of me
That say's I threw everything away
Threw everything away
And through it all
And through it all
I threw it all away
Good morning today is a new day
Good morning today is a new day
I'm mourning the loss of my old ways
Threw everything away