

KillRadio, Do You Know

Do you know
What they say
Do you know what they say
What they say about you
Do you know
What they do
Do you know what they do
When you leave the room
Do you know
What they say
Do you know what they say
What they say about you
Do you know
What they do
Do you know what they do
When you leave the room
Never thought twice about holding your tongue
Once upon a time you were so young
Everywhere you carried around your soul
In the night they stole your skin and bones
Laughing aloud
At your expense
Feed themselves
In your innocence
Bear attacks and certain doubt
Now you're shredded in the cold
With a knife in your back
Do you know
What they feel
Do you know what they feel
What they feel for you
Do you know
How they play
Do you know how they play
How they play inside you
Do you know
What they steal
Do you know what they steal
What they steal from you
Do you know
How they pray
Do you know how they pray
How they pray upon you
Never thought twice about holding your tongue
Once upon a time you were so young
Everywhere you carried around your soul
In the night they stole and left your skin and bones
Nothing aloud
Now you're shredded and cold
Tell me did you crawl
After all these years
Giving up control
And buying into fear
Nights turned into morning
And days remain unchanged
'Cause their mighty appetite
Will not be tamed
Do you care
Do you care

Do you care
Do you care what they say
What they say about you
Do you care
Do you care how play
