

Kimberley Locke, Without You

Clay Aiken:

Never even thought to cry
When I heard you say good bye
Never said where you were going
There's no laughter in the air
Only silence everywhere
And so much left unspoken
Since you've been gone
I haven't been the same
I wish that I could see
Who's to blame

Without you

Where do I belong

Without you

How can I go on?

No love but yours

Will ever due

Tell me how am I

Supposed to live my life

Without you?

Kimberley Locke:

Was I lost in you and me

To the point I couldn't see

That what we had was dying

Now it's all that I can do

Both:

To see photographs of you

Kimberley Locke:

And stop myself from crying

I should learn to live

Without your love

Both:

Got so many memories

But it's not enough

Without you

Where do I belong

Without you

How can I go on

No love but yours

Will ever due

Tell me how am I

Supposed to live my life

Without you

Clay Aiken:

I feel helpless

And oh so all alone

Kimberley Locke:

Like I've never felt before

Both:

You made me feel alive

But I don't remember

What it's like anymore

Without you

Where do I belong

Without you
How can I go on
No love but yours
Will ever due
Tell me how am I
Supposed to live my life
Without you
