

Koufax, Adultery

A little problem has arrived
I have heard that you are someone's wife,
Two kids, at home full time
Which would mean that I am
That would mean that I am the other man
Well, I've never been a moral man
Where do you think it's going
Where do you see this going
I know it won't last
Can't say I'd give it the chance
Everyone says that it's wrong
We never did slow down
To think about this adultery - it screwed morality
Just when I say it's through
She comes up with, "It's the sin I love...
That's known from the first touch"
Why older women have these emotions
I will understand, as the devil guides my hands
Where do you think it's going
What do you think we're doing
I know it won't last,
But I'd still like one more pass
Everyone says that it's wrong
We never did slow down
To think about this adultery - it screwed morality
When I brag about having a Mrs. Robinson
Knowing that it is only the sin that is the attraction
We never did slow down
To think about this adultery - it fucked morality
