Kreator, Under A Total Blackned Sky

Under A Total Blackned Sky

One with the voices Better left unheared One with the dark side The force that turns the earth

One of the mortal That ignorance protects Some unleash a future that takes foundation In their certain death

And I'm seeing red When I see your face And I scorn your name

There's a vision brighter than a thousand suns Rulers fear to face the violence As stronger it becomes

Until the day we die We have to live beneath a blackened sky Until the day we die Under a total blackened sky

One with the dead souls that roam upon the land Time waits for no man, not even for the damned One with the carrion Picking upon the flesh A perfect evil will prevail, delivering Remains left to infest

And I'm seeing red When I see your face And I scorn your name

There's a vision brighter than a thousand suns Rulers fear to face the violence As stronger it becomes

Until the day we die We have to live beneath a blackened sky Until the day we die Under a total blackened sky

Fight bound in fight Demons and gods, Kaisers and fools Bound in a fight, once more for life Rich and the poor mongers of war Will heed the call