

Krezip, In Her Head

She's walking through the streets of fiction
Seeing things she's never seen
Wishing he'd be great perfection
Telling her that he hates
In her head, there's no more pain
In her head, it's only great
In her head, he smiles at her
But in her head, she can also feel his hate
But when she opens up her eyes
She sees again his hating mind
And that makes her miserable
So she closes her eyes and goes on
In her head, there's no more pain
In her head, it's only great
In her head, he smiles at her
But in her head, she can also feel his hate
In her head, there's no more pain
In her head, it's only great
In her head, he smiles at her
But in her head, she can also feel his hate
In her head, she can also feel his hate