

Kristine W., Stronger

My love is
My love is
My love is stronger, stronger

If you think you stand alone
You've got a lot to learn Because as long as there's one breath left in me You'll always have someone to turn to You're walking through that storm There's a whirlwind in your mind
When you need a little shelter You can run into these arms of mine

My love is stronger
than your pain,
Stronger than your fear
Sweet enough to wash
the salt from your tears Deeper than the waves that break against your heart
You can't go on any longer
My love is stronger

Like a tiny fragile flower
Is gently nourished by the sun
Your love somehow empowers me
To do things I've have never done
To break through all these chains
All of my doubts and uncertainties
When your weakest hour falls around you
You can find your strength in me

My love is stronger
than your pain,
Stronger than your fear
Sweet enough to wash
the salt from your tears
Deeper than the waves that
break against your heart
You can't go on any longer
My love is stronger