

Kristy Thirsk, Imagination

(Thirsk)

there's nothing to worry about now though this curse of unrest loves to take its bow it just seems easier to pretend and there's nothing to worry about now it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild is love open to interpretation when it's gunning, gunning, gunning, gunning you down?
it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild
is love open to interpretation when it's gunning you down?
there's nothing to worry about here though these lies to myself company the fear nothing of value left to defend and there's nothing to worry about here
it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild
is love open to interpretation when it's gunning, gunning, gunning, gunning you down?
it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild
is love open to interpretation when it's gunning you down?
it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild
is love open to interpretation when it's gunning, gunning, gunning, gunning you down?
it's just my imagination running, running, running, running wild
is love open to interpretation when it's gunning you down?
down
running, running, running, running
down
down
running, running, running, running