

Kristy Thirsk, Poison

(Hiratzka/Thirsk)

all the years went by like a rushing hurricane and i just sigh but stuck in the eye, spinning to destruction and that's where i laid when i needed you i was busy trying to prove i did not care fear and jealousy always showed their jagged teeth and i was scared i'm so sorry that i took so long to come around i had every poison in my heart so strong as we read through time, pain will die and then our love is bound to grow smiles and tears inside, this is life, it's all a part of letting go
i'm so thankful that we get to have another chance you can claim the pieces of my heart, my love bear through forward now take a vow to leave the past behind
you can claim the pieces of my heart, my love
you can claim the pieces of my heart, my love
