

Ladytron, All The Way

They heard the sound of the snow falling
They left the house, and started running
They ran past the street where they flout their lines
Where chemistries slowly redesigned
All the way, the calender froze on even number
Kat caught the tones of the cold corner
All the way, they could see it going
All the way, its temperature, fahrenheit sanction
A transparent sound, mapping distraction
All the way, it would be forever
All the way

All the way, they heard the sound of the snow falling
They left the house and started running
Im gonna let you know when it's time to be leaving
Don't want the same ghost for company this evening
You come here, and i disappear
Somehow i see something i fear
Maybe we'll make someone's souvenir
All the way, they heard the sound of the snow falling