

Lanemeyer, Grovers Corners, New Jersey

Here in this town it's always raining Fight every battle with a mile set out to find the world found that it was round I stood up straight and fell back down Do take a picture of the smile there as i lit another candle for this year with every dream dead and gone and all these stars have shone, for way to long Here in this town we feel the same way fight every heartbreak with a smile
set out to find the world
found that you were there I saw it all that's when I learned I watched, I failed you understand this game we're playing as we lit another candle for this yeat
with every dream dead and gone and all these stars have shown for way to long So take a picture, hold the smile there and blow out another candle for this year
with every dream dead and gone walked the whole way home under stars that have shone, here to long
