

Lapis Lazuli, Siren's Song

I walk along the morning shore
I hear the birdsong, hear the oceans voice
And i hear it call my name Calling me to step into its depth

And I feel so drawn towards the waves
And my mind is playing tricks again

I can swear I see a ghost
She seem familiar, from where I cant decide She seems so near and yet so far
I long too join her destiny

And i take a step closer to her
And the waves they flow away with me....

One final prayer
For those who cried
In times of pain
In times of fear
A Sirens song
for all those hearts
torn apart

And the darkness of the sea
A gastly mist, its freezing me, its strangling me, I cant believe it's happening...

I can feel the terror grow, have I really chosen this,
a deadly kiss, that drains my spirit out of me...

Now I take goodbye to all my life now takes another way, will fade away to where, who knows, not me nor you....
