

Laura Veirs, Through december

Birds were falling from the sky all leaves had turned to brown
The heartless cold froze everything and