

Laurent Wolf, Seventies

I have no god and no religion and I just believe in television

Yeah, I can see the world without a fiction, hey hey

So everybody's got to hear this, shouting on my head.

I dream about the life at your side, climbing at the top when you're shy

My deepest attraction, I, I...

And these tears won't last when the world won't smile

She says, everybody's got to hear this, calling from my head

Who's gonna save me ? Who's gonna save me ?

Who's gonna hear this calling, make me feel this world in pink and blue ?

Who's gonna save me ? Who's gonna save me ?

Who's gonna make me feel this world in pink and blue and what'd you say ?

And everything is alright (right right right right right).

And everything is (right right right right right right right)

And everything is (right right right right right right right)

And everything is (right right right right right right right right right)

And everything is alright.