

Lee Hom Wang, Nature

Nature is forever The home for all mankind
And nature is emotion That makes you feel alive
And time will pass And you at last Will live life all too fast
So slow the pace And lift your face And heaven will remind you
That nature is the reason That everything is fine
But nature needs attention We're running out of time
And soon you'll learn That it's your turn To take her back to you
The change must come One by one It has to start with you
And time will pass And you at last Will live life all too fast
So slow the pace And lift your face And heaven will remind you
Nature is forever The hope for all mankind
Nature is believing Our dreams will never die
We laugh and cry We live our lives And never realize
We think we know But even so Life around us dies
Don't let it die You can't let it die Please don't let it die