

Leo Sayer, The Bells Of St. Marys

he used to play mouth organ in a folk club they called the lady jane all the sounds as his friends and there wasn't much that he could use his time for so he used to practice everyday and play the mouth he used to listen to the bells of st marys as they would echo through those early days and sometime and so he came into this crazy business and do you know the stars all fell his way and he became a and so he listens to the bells of st marys and so their echo haunts him every day so clear that he co