Leonard Cohen, Moving On

i love your face i love your hair your t-shirts and your eveningwear as for the world the job, the war I ditched them all to love your more and now you're gone now you're gone as if there ever was a you who broke the heart and made it new who's moving on who's kidding who