

Lera Lynn, My Least Favorite Life (True Detective)

this is my least favorite life the one where you fly and i don't a kiss holds a million deceptions and a lifetime goes up in smoke

this is my least favorite you who floats far above earth and stone the nights that i twist on the rack is the time that i feel most at home

i'm wandering in the shade and the rustle of fallen leaves a bird on the edge of a blade lost there forever
i'm locked in a sweet memory the station rolls away from the train the blue pulls away from the sky the whisper of two broken wings maybe they're yours maybe they're mine

the one where i'm out of my mind the one where you're just out of reach the one where i stay and you fly

lost there forever
