

Level 42, Staring At The Sun

No one heard you say your prayers ... for love no one ever seemed to care ... for you blind as you run
aware

you were staring at the sun always someone's favorite fool ... playing games that they'd invent for you ... losing your heart and soul
aware

there's no way you can repair yourself your fragile face reflects years of neglect love for so long denied dies in your eyes and so you kiss and give your heart away
far from the start you knew

there was something out of view like a burning spear of stars ... falling you dissolve the night in tears ... so tired blinded you run
aware

you were staring at the sun
you've given it all away no more prayers today you got a homeless heart that's tearing you apart you couldn't feel more cold inside your secret soul you never found no one
you were staring at the sun
(staring at the sun)
(staring at the sun)