

Limp, Passed Out

You're on your way Passed out and not aware
Not scared of anything Don't matter anymore
You're one to say life is a fragile toy
Don't play too hard with it Don't drop it on the floor

Cause you said this is all you can stand
And your vices are all that you have
And it's time to rethink what you thought That I'd never knew
you don't understand And here we go again

Can't take away can't hide or cover them
These scars are permanent They make you one of us
Can't drink away can't swallow all your pills
There's not a chemical to fix a jaded mind

Cause you said this is all you can stand
And your vices are all that you have
And it's time to rethink what you thought That I'd never knew
you don't understand And here we go again

Get up off the floor and I'll try to ignore that I saw you this way
