

Liquido, Curtain fall

I sleep beneath the window the night has come to fall the echo rings
I clench my pillow just living in my head now my eyes have come to rest I'm all alone but you are here with me you chase me though I'm falling I'm haunted by that scene I'm lingering in sweet obsession you made me feel like junkmail with every slight remark so watch me in the corner of your bin
...and I know it like you do
we're cracking up for salvation
I loved you by the window like many loved before I'm all wracked up but still I shiver I hate to be alone now I hate to be myself the night I've cried has made me wither I'm standing by the window the night becomes the day you're staring at me from the other side I know we'll have to go and our names are on the list so sneak away and may that curtain fall...