Liquido, Jump off

The city explodes tonight, erasing feelings that i used to feel throw away the key, all locked up inside the bridges will burn tonight, i wanna know what its like to remember all the days weve never had im burning cold, im freezing out, im not the same that i used to be you and i, bad memories and good times, the jump up to the sky together we get high we have waited too long, i wasnt trying to impress myself all the good things in my life getting away from me im burning cold, im freezing out, im not the same that i used to be dont turn your back on me, things i couldnt see spread your wings and fly over to me, oh my god its everytime the same, feelings without names cross your heart and come over to me, oh my god the jump off