

Lisa Marie Presley, Thanx

One day on one tombstone
All our names should go
We shared a life
The beauty and the ugliness
Through all the bitterness
The birth of a child
Thanks for throwing me the line
When I lost sight of it
You're the only reason I can exhale
Now suddenly when I find that the outcomes just not right
From what I just did
You're the only thing I can breathe through
And here my sweet friends a few lines of poetry
It may be laughable
But thanks for laughing with me
And here to the next time I wrap myself around a tree
I know that you'll be there with bells on
To pull me off
Thanks for throwing me the line
When I lost sight of it
You're the only reason I can exhale
Now suddenly when I find that the outcomes just not right
From what I just did
You're the only thing I can breathe through
You can tell me story I've heard before
I'll insult your mother
Then you can tell me where to go
Thanks for throwing me the line
When I lost sight of it
You're the only reason I can exhale
Now suddenly when I find that the outcomes just not right
From what I just did
You're the only thing I can breathe through
Thanks for throwing me the line
When I lost sight of it
You're the only reason I can exhale
Now suddenly when I find that the outcomes just not right
From what I just did
You're the only thing I can breathe through
