

Lisa Marie Presley, Yellow To Blue

I'm bitter, I'm the one who rang your bell and lit my own way to hell I'm AWOL, I'm the self determined one who wouldn't stay under your thumb Disappointed, I stumbled,
I warned you, I warned you yeah
You knew me did you ever
I'm that half empty glass that you can't fill

Yellow to blue
The horse turned to glue
The pirate she had one too many few again
What else is new I know

You gave me too much air
I can't hardly breath
You set me free did you now
I choked on your leash

Your holy in your head
As dynamic as a bed off nails
I'm waiting, I'm waiting for you to call for you to fall

Yellow to blue
The fish turned to food
I swam in the river divine and I came out to find Your idea of freedom was me losing mine

You gave me too much air

I can't hardly breath
You set me free did you now
I choked on your leash

You hooked into my collar
I followed your lead
When I asked for a drink of water
and you pushed me down the street

You caught wind that I talked shit again
Did you think that your call would soothe your conscience and my fall
Well I've got news for you
Hell no

You gave me too much air
I can't hardly breath
You set me free did you now
I choked on your leash

You hooked into my collar
I followed your lead
When I asked for a drink of water
and you pushed me down the street

You gave me too much air
I can't hardly breath
