

Longwave, Brighter Than Time

maybe the time is mine for the taking it comes like a dream
when your spirit is aching i saw it before
before only a second
it's brighter than time
a shining direction
it's just a name
and where to go
and you oughta
you oughta
you oughta know
you oughta
you oughta
you oughta know
i can't feel a thing
crippled and broken
body is bruised
my mouth is choking
but i could burn this city down to watch all the red light exploding in you
a flame that is so bright it's still the same
what's there to show
well you oughta
you oughta
you oughta know
you oughta
yeah you oughta
you oughta know
you can't be confused because you always knew a bitter escape is only what you make it very complicated don't you know i've made it too well we'll see it all
at the end of the century when i know the score i'll remember who sent me i won't be afraid
it can't be much worse there a new design
a breathe of fresh air
the red of the flame
perfection that grows
well you oughta
you oughta
you oughta know
you oughta
yeah you oughta
you oughta know