

Lostprophets, Broken Hearts, Torn Up Letters An

broken hearts and torn up letters girl you just can't dance forever if you wanna make it better hands are in her pockets and she's scared to look the picture's frozen and she's closed the book the jealousy has only got one friend and Joey's heart was never meant to mend walking faster now, she holds it close the timing matters just to take the dose empty pockets tell the stories and there's no destiny when everyone's your enemy take your jealous heart and cast it into stone and you'll regret it all living behind your wall and you'll never fall in love if you don't fall at all
broken hearts and torn up letters
girl you just can't dance forever
if you wanna make it better nights are getting darker and the wind is cold the summer sun has now become so old your closest friends were never meant to fade with all these dreams that didn't make the grade close the doors but never look inside time will tell if all your lovers died
empty pockets tell the stories
and there's no destiny when everyone's your enemy
take your jealous heart and cast it into stone
and you'll regret it all
living behind your wall
and you'll never fall in love if you don't risk it all
broken hearts and torn up letters
girl you just can't dance forever
if you wanna make it better
broken hearts and torn up letters
girl you just can't dance forever
if you wanna make it better times like these won't last forever
close the doors but never look inside
time will tell if all your lovers died
empty pockets tell the stories
and there's no destiny when everyone's your enemy
take your jealous heart and cast it into stone
and you'll regret it all
living behind your wall
and you'll never fall in love if you don't fall at all
and you'll regret it all
living behind your wall
and you'll never fall in love if you don't risk it all
broken hearts and torn up letters
girl you just can't dance forever
if you wanna make it better
times like these won't last forever