

Lou Reed, Stupid Man

Stupid man, hitchhiking out of a good life he says: "Catch you when ..."
And he thinks he's got big, big planes gonna build a house upon some land

Oh, Casey, don't it make you crazy oh, when you're living all alone by that damp water
Oh, Casey, don't it make you crazy
when you're living all alone by those still waters

Please say hello, please say hello to my little baby daughter Oh, Casey, tell her that her father's gonna be coming home so soon, so soon to see her

Well, I'm shooting down the turnpike with a driver doing ninety-five or maybe more don't you think he's loaded, drunk or the many things that lifes are for Oh, Casey, oh, Casey, don't you know I'll make you so damn crazy living all alone by those waters

But please say hello
But please say hello to my little baby daughter Please, please, won't you just give her a great, big kiss
And tell her daddy, stupid daddy will be coming home soon

Oh, Casey, oh, Casey don't you know, I make me so damn crazy when I was living there, all alone by those still waters But please tell, please tell my baby baby baby daughter that I'm tied up now, but I'll be home soon, I'll be the daddy that I oughta

Please say hello, oh Casey, please say hello from a stupid man Still my little baby daughter a big, big, big kiss and tell her that her daddy will be coming home soon But, Casey, don't you know I make me so damn crazy when I was living there all alone But won't you please give my, give my baby daughter a great, big, stupid kiss and tell her that her stupid father will be coming home soon Stupid man
