

Lovex, Ordinary Day

Reflection unharmed
Cold stares of the strangers
Are like a mirror into my life
Frozen and undermined

No longer can I
Remember the last time
I was afraid for something
I chose to give up on everything

It's all the same
On an ordinary day
I'm in my place
In my disgrace and

Nothing's changed
It's an ordinary day
Myself to live for
No one and no cause to die for

Like yesterday
Today, I disguise the way
I resent every breath we waste
Every time I choose to collaborate

Go with the flow
Refuse to see the signs
That were treading the ground we live on
Into a wasteland of American dreams

All the same
On an ordinary day
I'm in my place
In my disgrace and

Nothing's changed
It's an ordinary day
Myself to live for
No one and no cause to die for

All the same
On an ordinary day
I'm in my place
In my disgrace and

Nothing's changed
It's an ordinary day
Myself to live for
No one and no cause to die for

To die for
